The walking dead world beyond episode 1.

(Image credit: AMC) Finally, after a six-month coronavirus-enforced delay, The Walking Dead: World Beyond is here - introducing us to the first generation of young adults to come-of-age during the zombie apocalypse, and the subsequent difficulties of growing up in a world that largely identifies as 'Undead'. If your life currently feels empty without those smelly, flesh-hungry automatons clawing at your TV screen, read on as we detail how to watch The Walking Dead: World Beyond online from anywhere. The Walking Dead: World Beyond Cheat Sheet Cable viewers can watch episodes of The Walking Dead: World Beyond through AMC on Sundays at 10pm ET/PT, or 9pm CT (starting October 4). AMC Premiere subscribers can get early access to the series from October 1, but, if you've completely cut-the-cord, then Sling TV (opens in new tab) is a good alternative and offers a 3-day free trial. The Walking Dead: World Beyond presents an extreme embodiment of that now omnipresent term 'New Normal'. Set in a post-apocalyptic Nebraska, daily life offers a modicum of familiarity as children forge ahead with their studies at Campus Colony, despite virus-carrying corpses lurking at the periphery of society. The series' central protagonists are sisters Hope and Iris Bennett, 17-year old campus janitor Silas Plaskett, and student Elton Ortiz, four friends who embark on a journey beyond the safe school walls. Scream 4's Nico Tortorella stars as Felix Carlucci, the campus's head of security and a protector figure to the intrepid young students, while Julia Ormond takes on the more antagonistic role of Lt. Col Elizabeth Kubiek. The second Walking Dead spin-off after Fear The Walking Dead, World Beyond will only run for two seasons 10-episodes long; the reason being that showrunner Matthew Negrete and series creator Scott M. Gimple intend each season to function as "two very different feeling chapters of hopefully a very satisfying book." The show certainly appears to offer interesting parallels with our contemporary moment, as people learn to live in a post-pandemic and climate crisis afflicted world. So, fancy some post-apocalyptic drama crossed with heart-stopping zombie horror? Then read on as we detail how to watch The Walking Dead: World Beyond from anywhere. More premium TV: see how to watch Fargo season 4 from anywhere How to watch The Walking Dead: World Beyond online from anywhere in the world If you've got an inhuman hunger to watch The Walking Dead: World Beyond online but find yourself away from home or out of the country, you can still get a fresh helping of zombie drama. Downloading a VPN will let you overcome the nightmare of geo-blocks, so you can live stream The Walking Dead: World Beyond live as it airs in the US, wherever you are. Which VPN is best for you? Our top pick is ExpressVPN. And how do you use that to watch The Walking Dead: World Beyond online? It's actually remarkably simple. How to watch The Walking Dead: World Beyond online in the US Viewers with AMC (opens in new tab) as part of a cable package can watch The Walking Dead: World Beyond every Sunday at 10pm ET/PT and 9pm CT. Furthermore, AMC subscribers are welcome to register for AMC Premiere (opens in new tab) if they want early-bird access to The Walking Dead: World Beyond, as well as other hit shows from the network like Better Call Saul. It grants advance access to episodes around three days prior to their TV debut and all without the interruption of ads. You'll pay $29.49 for an annual pass currently, or $4.99 if you decide to pay monthly. Either way, each option provides a 7-day free trial (opens in new tab) and you can cancel your membership at any time. How to watch The Walking Dead: World Beyond without cable Sling TV (opens in new tab) - Sling Blue and Sling Orange plans both include AMC, with each costing $30 a month. However, the Orange line-up has over 30 channels - privileging sports and family content - while Blue has 45, but consists of more entertainment and news networks. There are two promotions running currently: a 3 day free trial (opens in new tab), and an initial $10 off Sling + Showtime, Starz, and Epix (opens in new tab) access for your first month. Sling TV is compatible with myriad devices too, including: iOS and Android devices, Apple TV, Roku, Xbox One, Fire TV, Oculus, and among many others. Philo (opens in new tab) - AMC is available through Philo too, and is arguably better value than Sling. For $20 a month you receive access to 61 channels, including Comedy Central, A&E, and VH1, while being able to stream to three separate devices simultaneously, in addition to unlimited DVR. Signing up for their 7-day free trial (opens in new tab) is a breeze: simply enter your mobile number to get an initial three days access. After that, if you want to keep enjoying free TV, you'll need to provide your payment details. Either cancel at the end of the 7 days, or do nothing and maintain your access at $20 a month. FuboTV (opens in new tab) - If you're looking for something more comprehensive - but yes, also more expensive - then fuboTV is definitely worth a look. Their entry-level plan comprises over 100 channels for $59.99 a month - after their week-long free trial (opens in new tab). Also, possibly tempting The Walking Dead aficionados, they currently have all season 10 episodes of the original show available to stream. Found yourself out of country when the AMC's zombie apocalypse begins? Don't worry. By downloading a VPN (opens in new tab) you'll still be able to connect to an IPTV like Sling and stream The Walking Dead: World Beyond online, no matter where you are (although preferably from within a boarded up and well-stocked bunker). How to watch The Walking Dead: World Beyond online in the UK How to watch The Walking Dead: World Beyond online in Australia Can I watch The Walking Dead: World Beyond online in Canada? Alas, the adrenaline-pumping spin-off show won't be coming to Canada anytime soon - probably not until it's finished its initial run on AMC. With the last episode expected in early December, Canadians might find it shortly after on Netflix (opens in new tab), alongside the previous nine seasons of The Walking Dead (CNDS$9.99 a month for their entry-level plan), or via Amazon Prime Video (opens in new tab), where currently all five seasons of Fear The Walking Dead are available to stream (CNDS$7.99 per month, after the 30-day free trial (opens in new tab)). Don't despair however if you're an American in Toronto just as The Walking Dead: World Beyond drops new episodes. Simply download the best VPN and you can enjoy the show just as if you were at home. THERE'S NO BETTER WAY TO GET FROM place to place than to walk. Sure, it's not the fastest or the easiest, but walking has proven physical, emotional, and psychological benefits. And it's downright fun. But not many people organize their travel around walking. Walks Worldwide, a tour operator specializing in hikes and treks, decided to try something interesting: they arranged an around-the-world hiking trip, starting in the UK, and then picking a hike in an adjacent country till they worked their way through six continents and thirty-nine other countries - all the way back to the UK. The resulting hiking tour is a veritable "best of" list of the best hikes in the world, including the Inca Trail, the Appalachian Trail, and the Great Wall of China. Check it out, and plan your next hiking trip. Infographic by Walks Worldwide What did you think of this story? July 20, 2013, 1:31 AM UTC By Drusilla Moorhouse It's a horde! "The Walking Dead's" producers and stars faced 4,000 more fans at Friday's Comic-Con panel than they did last year, and rewarded attendees with plenty of scoop about the upcoming fourth season. "Things are just going to keep getting crazier," promised Robert Kirkman, creator of the original "TWD" comic books and now an executive producer on the zombie drama. "It's escalated," agreed showrunner Scott Gimple, who penned the first episode. "It's going to get insane very quickly." The feel of the panel was similar, shifting from somber to silly throughout the hour. Some highlights: Scott Wilson, whose character lost a leg last season, drew the first laugh by faking a hop when he walked to his seat. Later on, when asked about Hershel's motivation this year, he quipped, "I think he really just wants to hold on to his other leg." We will see "a brand-new Rick," said Andrew Lincoln, adding that the sheriff is finally able to prioritize his children over his Ricketorship. "I think the death of his wife, and (his relationship with his) son - the brutality of what happened in season three - was cataclysmic. When we meet them in season four, there's a whole new community in the prison." Michonne "starts to become part of the community," said Danaï Gurira. "Andrea's parting message was affirming that Michonne was in the right place." Vocal fans believe her place also belongs with Rick. "Guys are just self-centered," said Steven Yeun, but Lauren Cohan responded: "He's forgiven, though." ("If only everyone could be so forgiving" cracked moderator Chris Hardwicke of "The Talking Dead.") Chad Coleman said Tyreese's focus will be on fitting into the new group after leaving Woodbury. "No one is unscathed, and eventually a can of whoop-ass will open up." "Everyone on the show still considers their fallen comrades part of 'TWD' family. Lincoln said, "The only bad thing about this show is I get to work with amazing actors and build amazing friendships - then they get bitten. And I shoot 'em." Lincoln and David Morrissey's on-screen rivalry continued to the panel - in jest. While filming their failed mediation, Lincoln said, "A lot of the crew were wearing Rick Grimes T-shirts." "My memory is they had a patch on," retorted the fellow Brit. The laughs and the scoops weren't all that the panel gave attendees. AMC also debuted the season's four-and-a-half minute trailer. And judging by the cuts, it seems there might be a new sheriff in prison town. Crossbow-toting fan favorite Daryl Dixon (played by Norman Reedus) appears to be the main man in action for the first minute of the lengthy video. And where's Rick during all this? Somewhere in a few background shots. Of course, when things look like they're getting bad for the gang of survivors, the former sheriff is there to help. And as Kirkman and Gimple teased, the situation gets pretty unpleasant. Rick and the group may have what seems like a nice little community now that they've got the kind folks who left Woodbury at the end of the last season, but looks can be deceiving. The trailer hints that there may be someone - or something - in their midst who attacks the residents of the prison camp. Find out who (or maybe what) the problem is when "The Walking Dead" returns for season four on Oct. 13 at 9 p.m. on AMC.
